

Global Health Symposium 2023

Master of public Health in Global Health Program

As part of GH618, a course of Master of Public Health (Global Health) Program, our MPH-GH students in AY 2022 attended the #CompulsoryLearningSymposium within the #MastersofGlobalHealth, held at Manipal Academy of Higher Education, Madhav Nagar, Manipal 576 104, Karnataka, India, from April 15 to April 29, 2023.

As an important part of the India Symposium, students from Maastricht, Manipal, Ahfad, Thammasat University, and McMaster Universities worked together in groups supported by faculty from all Universities and focused on a Global health topic, such as how to use theoretical knowledge to create a system map of a topic area in order to understand the health system and its functioning, how to assess the current conditions in the field, how to generate relevant insights for the organizations under study, and how to prioritize topics for further investigation.

The Compulsory Learning Symposium was designed to give students an opportunity to learn to work with others and to take advantage of the diversity in backgrounds, knowledge, and skills among students from all participating Universities and use them for productive collaboration with a purpose. It will also provide an opportunity for exposure to the local environment and to a part of the Indian Health Care system.
